Caledonian Hotel

The Caledonian Hotel, located on the corner of O'Connell Street and Barton Terrace West was established in 1869.

As it was rare for single storey hotels to be built or established after the mid-1850s, the Caledonian Hotel remains as one of the only two-single storey hotels, with the other being the Queen's Head Hotel on Kermode Street. The hotel is also one of only four hotels, licensed between 1870 and 1900 that were still trading in 2022.
In 1878, a horse tram terminus was constructed opposite the Caledonian, which increased trade and business for the hotel. The increased traffic from the tram activity resulted in an expansion and renovation of the hotel in 1883.

Q: What do you call a well-balanced horse?

A: Stable.

Last week we had an engaging speaker from Prospect Council, Mark Standen, (pictured below with PP Vic Isbester) whose topic was "We Hate Change. The Dark Art of Community Engagement"

With examples of different types of community engagement with developing ovals in Perth for community use, he went on to explain the process for the improvement of Prospect Oval with the recent purchase of the former JEEP site on Main North Road. This has led to community consultation on the best way forward to use this land.

The Prospect Oval Master Plan will clearly outline the infrastructure upgrades needed to create a fit-for-purpose community space and elite sporting precinct. The Master Plan will be completed through 2024/25 financial year.

PROSPECT LIFESTYLE PRECINCT

One of our 2024 Capers fundraising recipients, New Hope Cambodia is geared to education, self-sufficiency and the ability for everyone who attends their school and training courses to earn a living standing on their own two feet. For more information, check their website New Hope Cambodia.com

A Sydney tour company, 'On Course Tours' who also support 'New Hope Cambodia' is arranging an 11-day small group tour next year, catering to an older demographic. If anyone is interested in joining the tour, contact Mark Carter for more details.
